FOR THE ASSOCIATE COMMISSIONER,
EXAMINATIONS

Terrance M. O'Reilly, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The preference visa petition was denied by the Director, Vermont Service Center, and is now before the Associate Commissioner for Examinations on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The petitioner is a native and citizen of Poland who is seeking classification as a special immigrant pursuant to section 204(a)(1)(A)(iv) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. 1154(a)(1)(A)(iv), as the battered child of a citizen of the United States.

The director denied the petition after determining that the petitioner failed to meet the qualification of a child of a citizen or lawful permanent resident of the United States because she was over 21 years of age.

On appeal, the petitioner states that she feels she should not be penalized for the physical and psychological abuse she was subjected to by her father.

8 C.F.R. 204.2(e)(1) states, in pertinent part, that:

(i) A child may file a self-petition under section 204(a)(1)(A)(iv) or 204(a)(1)(B)(iii) of the Act for his or her classification as an immigrant relative or as a preference immigrant if he or she:

(A) Is the child of a citizen or lawful permanent resident of the United States;

(B) Is eligible for immigrant classification under section 201(b)(2)(A)(i) or 203(a)(2)(A) of the Act based on that relationship;

(C) Is residing in the United States;

(D) Has resided in the United States with the citizen or lawful permanent resident parent;

(E) Has been battered by, or has been the subject of extreme cruelty perpetrated by, the citizen or lawful permanent resident parent while residing with that parent;

(F) Is a person of good moral character; and

(G) Is a person whose deportation (removal) would result in extreme hardship to himself or herself.

The petition, Form I-360, shows that the petitioner arrived in the United States as a visitor on August 6, 1997. On October 21, 1999, a self-petition was filed by the petitioner claiming eligibility as a special immigrant alien who has been battered by, or has been the subject of extreme cruelty perpetrated by, her U.S. citizen parent while residing with that parent.

8 C.F.R. 204.2(e)(1)(i)(A) requires that the self-petitioner must establish that she is the child of a citizen or lawful permanent resident of the United States.

Section 101(b)(1) of the Act defines the term "child" to mean an unmarried person under 21 years of age. The record reflects that the petitioner was born in Poland on March 25, 1978. On October 21, 1999, approximately seven months after the petitioner turned 21 years of age, she filed this self-petition. The director, therefore, determined that the petitioner did not qualify as the child of a U.S. citizen because she was over 21 years of age.

The petitioner, on appeal, claims that her original application for permanent residence was dated November 1997 when she was 19 years old, and that she was residing with her father until his physical and psychological abuse started in January 1999. The petitioner, however, filed a self-petition, Form I-360, for benefits under section 204(a)(1)(A)(iv) of the Act as a battered child. This self-petition is adjudicated accordingly.

8 C.F.R. 204.2(e)(1)(ii) provides that the self-petitioning child must be unmarried, less than 21 years of age, and otherwise qualify as the abuser's child under the definition of child contained in section 101(b)(1) of the Act when the petition is filed and when it is approved. For this reason, the petition may not be approved.

The petitioner is statutorily ineligible for the benefit sought pursuant to section 204(a)(1)(A)(iv) of the Act. She has, therefore, failed to overcome the director's finding pursuant to 8 C.F.R. 204.2(e)(1)(i)(A).

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. 1361. The petitioner has not met that burden. Accordingly, the appeal will be dismissed.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
